Pippa Jacomb, Associate Director, Modern British Art, Head of Day Sale, Christie's London: "Following the success of the 'Modern British & Irish Art Evening Sale,' which saw a new world record price for the category set by a painting by Sir Stanley Spencer, we are very pleased with the strong results witnessed in the 'Modern British and Irish Art Day Sale.' A busy saleroom saw competitive bidding across the spectrum of periods and styles of the category. Notable prices were achieved for Dame Barbara Hepworth's 'Hollow Oval (January)' and 'Dorelia in a hat' by Augustus John. Three new world record prices were achieved for works by Bernard Meadows, Augustus John and Paul Mount. Also included in the sale were a group of paintings from the Estate of David Bomberg which were sold to benefit Hadassah International. Following the sale of Lowry's 'May Day' directly after the Evening auction on 20 November 2013 the combined total for the category, including the Modern British works sold in 'The Collection of the Late Mrs T.S. Eliot,' comes to £21,623,000/$34,848,987/€25,713,627. We look forward to the 'Modern British & Irish Art' sale in South Kensington on 12 December 2013."
