"Today's auction of Maritime realized the highest sale total ever. We were extremely pleased at the results of our sale entering our 10 year anniversary. Our leading artists Montague Dawson and James Edward Buttersworth performed exceedingly well confirming the quality and freshness to the market. Most importantly we are pleased at the price for our cover lot, the 19th century carved and polychromed wooden ship's figurehead from the bark Edinburgh by John Rogerson (1837-1925); circa 1883 as it demonstrates the strength in the market not just for paintings but for good nautical antiques," said Marie Kotsonis, Maritime Picture Specialist and Gregg Dietrich, Maritime Models, Ephemera and Scientific Instrument Specialist, Christie's Americas
