Comment: Laetitia Catoir, specialist in charge of the sale:

“We were thrilled with the sales results yesterday, the highest total by far for this category in London. Huge international interest for Post-War and Contemporary Art resulted in competitive bidding throughout the sale, both in the room and with over 1,400 telephone bidders. We are particularly pleased with the results for the Warhol/Basquiat/Clemente collaboration – the highest price ever achieved at auction for a work from that series. Following on from the results of the Evening Sale, demand remains strong for European Post-War artists as shown by the results for the Vieira da Silva, Fontana and Riopelle. Among the more contemporary works in the sale, high prices were seen for Olafur Eliasson's Looking for Hot Water in Gunner's Land which sold for an extraordinary £102,000 and Piotr Uklanski which sold for £62,400.”
