COMMENT: "We were thrilled with the outstanding performance of today's sale," said Melissa Gagen, Head of Christie's European Furniture Department. "In addition to the solid results realized for the New York townhouse property, there were a number of exemplary pieces which well exceeded their pre-sale estimates, showing that the market is extremely healthy particularly at the higher end. The most exciting and unpredictable result in the sale was the Regency brass wine cooler, sold by the Glenbow Museum in Alberta, which collectors found fascinating for its uniqueness and untouched, original condition."
