New York – Christie's is proud to present the annual Staff Art Show, Inside Job: The New York Edition. The sale will be open for bidding online between August 25 – September 2, accompanied by an exhibit at Christie's New York galleries.

This year, the sale features works from around 30 Christie's New York employees spanning across many parts of the business including Art Handlers, Marketing, Productions, as well as Specialist Departments such as Photographs, American Paintings and Post-War and Contemporary Art. With estimates starting at $100, the sale displays unique paintings, photography, works on paper and mixed media that depict the creativity and diversity of the artists.

Continuing Christie's Corporate Social Responsibility initiatives, a portion of the proceeds will be donated to Art Start, a 501(c)3, nonprofit founded in 1991 in New York City that conducts creative art workshops with thousands of youths experiencing homelessness and the juvenile justice system year-round.

About Art Start

Art Start uses the creative process to nurture the voices, hearts, and minds of historically marginalized youth, offering a space for them to imagine, believe, and represent their creative vision for their lives and communities.

Through consistent workshops with long-term partners, including youth organizations, schools, alternative sentencing programs, and residences for youth and families experiencing homelessness, art becomes the starting point of a larger life process, and the start of larger conversations about the future of our communities.
