COMMENT: "We are delighted to see that the furniture market is a healthy one," said Melissa Gagen, Head of Christie's European Furniture Department. "There was great depth in buying across all categories from early Georgian through the 19th century, and with practical decorative objects making strong prices. In addition to the furniture offerings, the morning sale of Property from a Sutton Square Residence saw tremendous prices with the Kuhnert painting and the Chinese export armorial service. We look forward to Friday's sale of Important European Furniture."
