Richard Brierley, Head of Wine Sales, Christie's Americas, says: "This season's New York Evening Sale provided a fitting second act to our three-part wine series here in the Americas, taking place across only nine days and on both coasts. A solid performance, with excellent prices paid for the best lots on offer, underlined the continuing strength of the market, and we were encouraged by the response to superlative wines sourced with impeccable provenance. Notably, the rarities from Mähler-Besse grossed over $1million. We now look ahead to the much-anticipated Grands Crus II sale, from the remarkable cellar of Christen Sveaas, to be sold in Los Angeles this Saturday, November 3."
