Comment: Nic McElhatton, Director and Head of Department:

"This was undoubtedly the most important collection of treen ever to come to the market. We are delighted with today's result. The success of the sale containing over one hundred and eighty lots of treen was a fitting tribute to the late Jonathan Levi's collecting prowess and connoisseurship. A long bank of telephone bidders, a saleroom packed with dealers, collectors and enthusiasts, with numerous bids from Christie's on line bidding service all contributed to a fantastic atmosphere in the room. We were particularly pleased with the pair of decorated fruitwood goblets lot 136, at £24,000 this was undoubtedly a world record price for goblets of their type."
