Market Comment: Yuka Yamaji, Head of Photographs, Christie's London:

“This tightly-edited sale saw outstanding results and extremely strong bidding from an international audience. Post War and Contemporary artists continue to perform particularly well, buoyed by the strong art market results from paintings through to photographs. Strong prices were also achieved for exceptional works by Julia Margaret Cameron and El Lissitzky, demonstrating that the market continues to respond to the finest examples of 19th and early 20th century photography. This sale completes a record year of Photographs sales at King Street and we look forward to the South Kensington sale of Photographs on 28 November.”
