COMMENT: "We are pleased with the results of today's sale, which realized the highest total for any various-owner American Paintings sale in Christie's history," said Eric Widing, Senior Vice President and Head of Christie's American Paintings Department. "The economy has added an element of uncertainty which was reflected in the bidding today as collectors were selective. The finest and freshest masterworks sold extremely well, such as the magnificent George Bellows from the Estate of Eleanor Searle Whitney McCollum and Thomas Moran's Green River, Wyoming, long-held in private collections, which elicited robust prices."
