Comment: Edward Clive, Director: The sale saw Christie's continue a proud 236 year tradition of offering Royal collections at auction, and we are thrilled to have seen such a positive response. We welcomed nearly 700 bidders from around the world; from the Middle East to Australia, from Colombia to China, and the buyers at the sale came from 34 different countries. Competitive bidding saw most lots exceed their estimates, and the sale itself doubled expectations realising £2.1 million, underlining the enduring popularity of Royal provenance.
