Comment: Chris Munro, Director, London Wine Department said:

"The sale witnessed sustained demand from global collectors of fine wine, and prices for the finest wines from renowned blue chip producers continue to increase. Burgundy was the star at today's sale as twelve bottles of Vosne-Romanée, Cros Parantoux 1978 from Henri Jaye realized £36,800 and a rare Methuselah of La Tache 1971 realized £17,250. Other highlights included a full case of Lafite-Rothschild 1982 again exceeding £20,000, and a full case of Chateau Latour 1961 hammering down for close to £22,000. We look forward to our end of year Finest and Rarest wine sale on the 10th December featuring historic vintages from Chateau Pichon Lalande."
