Tim Bourne, International Co-Head of Christie's Watch Department: "From the continuing high sell-through rate of 94% by value, 91% by lot, as well as 62% of the lots selling over the high estimate, we can see the tremendous appetite of Asian collectors for the very top end of the market. The Millennium Collection in particular - a unique selection of some of the world's finest horological creations assembled over the past decade by a private collector - garnered a high 92% sell-through rate by lot and totalled HK$23 million/US$2.95 million which well exceeded the high estimate.

The highly competitive global bidding for all major lots in the sale, combined with active Asian participation, reaffirm Hong Kong's position as a premier centre for the watch market. With a consistently strong track record the world over, Christie's once again proves to be the undisputed leader in the global watch auction market."'''
