Joy McCall, Senior Specialist of 20th Century Decorative Art and Design and Head of Sale:

"It has been a many years since such an important private collection of Lalique has appeared on the market. The collection contained a wonderful array of rare pieces, which is reflected by the prices realised and the breadth of international participation both on the telephones and via Christie's Live. The top price achieved was for the 'Cluny vase', one of only two designs by René Lalique to incorporate bronze handles. This was closely followed by the 'Frise Branches D'épines' cire perdue vase and cover, a unique piece made using the lost wax technique more usually employed in the production of bronzes. The collection comprised a vast spectrum of large coloured vases and it was the 'Sauterelles' vase in lime-green which attracted most interest and the highest result today. We now look forward to launching the Christie's Lalique Online sale taking place on 17-25 June".
