WORLD AUCTION RECORD FOR A SONG DYNASTY TEA BOWL

New York - Christie's concluded its Asian Art Week with a combined total of $58,591,063 (£44,274,732/ €52,063,176/ HK$452,399,767) achieved over four days of eight sales, September 13-16. The auctions saw deep bidding levels from Greater China across all categories especially for the Indian, Himalayan and Southeast Asian Art sale. Works of such extreme rarity and importance were exemplified by the 'Oil Spot' Jian Tea Bowl from The Linyushanren Collection, which sold for $11,701,000, setting a world auction record for a Song dynasty tea bowl and the top lot of Asian Art in New York. The dedicated sale of Collected in America: Chinese Ceramics from The Metropolitan Museum of Art generated huge international interest and was 100% sold, the result of exceptional works with excellent provenance. Christie's will offer an additional selection of ceramics from the museum in an online auction that continues to September 21-22. Building on the strong start to the autumn season, Christie's Hong Kong sales in October and November will present the market with a further array of highly covetable works to inspire collectors worldwide.

Looking Ahead to 2017

Christie's is honored to announce the sale of Important Chinese Art from the Fujita Museum in March 2017. This landmark sale will include both important Chinese archaic bronzes and works of art as well as exceptional Chinese paintings. A global tour of highlights from the collection will start in November and continue throughout Asia prior to the New York sale.

Further details of the collection will be announced in November 2016. Please see below for the touring schedule.
