Hong Kong - This season Christie's presents an outstanding collection of Chinese paintings showcasing some of the finest works from the Song dynasty through to the present. From meticulous gongbi to monumental splashed ink, the works offer collectors a discerning perspective into the evolution of classical Chinese painting techniques.

Highlights include a group of delicate works on silk from the Song and Ming dynasty, iconic modern masters who fused western influences with traditional aesthetics such as Fu Baoshi, Zhang Daqian, and Wu Guanzhong, and pioneering contemporary artists such as Liu Kuo-Sung, Liu Dan and Xu Lei who give us a glimpse into the future of Chinese paintings.

Ben Kong, Deputy Chairman, International Specialist Head of Chinese of Paintings, commented "Through the ages, each artist has found a deep source of inspiration from their predecessors and developed distinctive styles which reflected their personal reinterpretation of history and painting tradition. The selection of works this season epitomise the best examples of Chinese paintings across time, showcasing a range of unique styles and subject matter".

MODERN PAINTINGS

Among the many highlights from important modern Chinese masters are works by Zhang Daqian including Autumn Mountain and Red Lotus and Mandarin Ducks. Although Zhang Daqian's lotus paintings are not uncommon, there are only two examples that feature both his gold-outlined red lotuses and meticulously painted mandarin ducks, making this work rare in the market. Standing six feet tall, the composition is well balanced, with the overlapping foliage painted with varying shades of ink to emphasize a sense of three dimensionality and a sense of movement. In Yellow River Under Moonlight by Wu Guangzhong, the artist used a series of techniques rooted in both Eastern and Western traditions to create an overall composition that calls to mind a classical Chinese landscape in handscroll format, while the linear treatment of perspective is reminiscent of the aesthetics of western painting. In Scenery of Sinaia by Fu Baoshi we see a different approach to landscape painting, here rendered in an impressionistic manner with rich variations of ink and colour washes. This work is considered to be among his finest compositions from his rare "Eastern Europe" body of work.

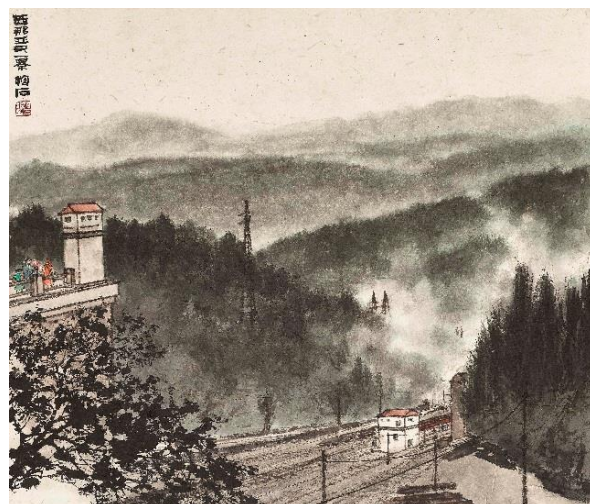

WU GUANZHONG (1919-2010)

CONTEMPORARY INK PAINTINGS

LIU KUO-SUNG (LIU GUOSONG, B. 1932)

Ama Dablam

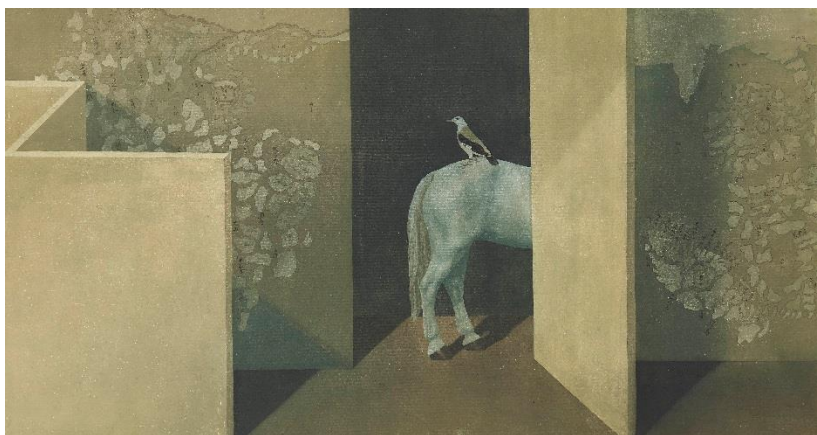

Scroll, mounted and framed, Ink and colour on paper
183 x 90.5 cm. (72 x 35 7/8 in.)

Executed in 2008

HK$1,800,000 – 2,800,000/

US$240,000 – 360,000

Contemporary ink artists continue to draw upon historical artistic wisdom, reinterpreting traditional painting techniques and applying a unique perspective to their creations. Several works on offer this season beautifully embody this practice, such as Ama Dablam by Liu Kuo-Sung. Inspired by his visits to Tibet, the artist portrayed the majesty of the Himalayas by combining technical mastery with an experimental use of materials, to create an atmospheric “portrait” of snowy jagged mountains. In New English Calligraphy - Zen Poetry III by Xu Bing, he explores a multi-dimensional way of thinking beyond the framework of language, deconstructing and reconstructing characters, with a narrative that is neither Chinese nor English, while in Ruyi by Liu Dan we see calligraphy accompanying a meticulously depicted Ruyi, with its almost photographic depiction serving as a microscopic view to the wider universe. Joining these highlights is Lost City by Xu Lei, presenting a spellbinding visual conundrum, for which the artists is best known, as viewers are met with an intimate and unfolding drama full of symbolism, reminiscent of the surrealist worlds of Rene Magritte.
